Tape accord sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Working right up to a court-imposed deadline, the White House and Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox tried today to find a compromise to their dispute over President Nixon's Watergate tapes.

A few hours before lawyers for the two sides were to go before a federal appeals court to report on their efforts, a source close to the situation said "we're still working on it" and it was learned a third meeting to try to resolve the dilemma was held Wednesday.

Cox insists that a federal grand jury considering further Watergate indictments must hear the tape recordings of nine presidential conversations about the scandal, before taking action.

Nixon contends that surrendering the tapes would violate essential confidentiality in the Oval Office and destroy the presidency.

Indications were the two sides were still far apart, although administration sources indicated that the President was willing to compromise by offering Cox edited transcripts of the tapes, deleted of material that he feels must remain secret in the public interest. Just a week ago, seven judges of the U.S.

Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia proposed that the parties to the historic dispute seek a compromise. They urged that the President "or his delegate" meet with Cox, hear the tapes and decide whether portions might be turned over voluntarily to a grand jury, thus avoiding a test of constitutional issues in the courts.

The two sides were asked to report back today whether the suggestion had proved "fruitful." Nixon's lawyers filed a 40-page brief in the appeals court Wednesday.

School aides rapped

By DAVID ESPO

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley school administrators prejudged disadvantaged youths in a summer manpower program as irresponsible, lazy and interested only in receiving their paychecks, according to a state report.

The 20-page report, Summer Youth Program 1973 Area 4 Assessment, gives a generally mixed review to the federally-funded program. It notes bureaucratic duplication of effort and paper shuffling but also gives credit for providing both employment for youths and services for communities.

The report savors its strongest criticism for the unnamed school district administrators who directed some of the disadvantaged youths in the program. "Some real attitude programs were discovered in some Area 4 (Magic Valley) school district personnel," the report says. "Disadvantaged, low income students were thought to be interested in nothing except their paychecks. It was anticipated that most disadvantaged students would be naturally lazy and irresponsible."

The result, the report goes on to say, was that the youth was "classified and labeled before he had a chance to prove himself. This type of attitude toward low income people may be partly responsible for the high percentage of job placement in school maintenance."

Stanek children show improvement

DENVER (UPI) — Three of the five surviving Stanek sextuplets today showed signs of overcoming the lung disease that killed their infant sister. Doctors however, said, the children were still endangered.

"We can't put any percentage on it because their condition can change from hour to hour," said a spokesman for the University of Colorado Medical Center. "We're all hoping at the moment there's no reason for any grave concern. The prognosis has to be guarded. But the longer they survive, the better off they are."

Edna Stanek, who took fertility drugs before her pregnancy, saw her children for the first time Wednesday. The Staneks also have a 4-year-old son.

The half-hour visit with the children was the first time she had seen them all. Previously, doctors allowed her to see only John, the healthiest of the six since birth.

"They seemed so small and fragile," she said as she watched them take teaspoons of a milk solution and sugar water from nurses. Mrs. Stanek said she was pleased at the care given the infants by the hospital staff.

TF hazard study lags

By DAVID HORSMAN

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A study of fire hazards in Twin Falls schools, started six months ago, may not be ready in time for the $3.5 school bond election on Oct. 16.

The study was started in March by Twin Falls Fire Marshal Fred Higgins. Recent revisions of fire manuals by the National Fire Protection Association (the manuals are used as a basis for fire reports) have stalled the school fire hazard study, according to Higgins.

He said the new publications have been ordered but not received by the fire department.

The need for the fire hazard report is accentuated by the school bond election, Higgins said.

"I knew (when the report was started) that there was a movement on foot to get remodeling done in the school system and I wanted to make the report available to the people in charge of the school district in the event they had to go through a bond issue," Higgins said.

But he said today that the completed fire study could not be guaranteed by Oct. 16.

Asked for comments about the fire study to date, Higgins said he did not want to "jump the gun" by releasing information to the news media. "I'd rather get the report to the school people first," he said.

In checklist evaluations of Twin Falls schools in 1971, Higgins noted several fire hazards. Open stairways and open corridors, which could act as "fire alleys" in the event of a blaze, were listed at Vera C. O'Leary Junior High and Lincoln and Bjelke elementary schools. Screened windows, which could prevent evacuation of pupils, were noted at Morningside and Harrison schools. Cane fiber acoustical ceiling tile, a highly combustible material, was also listed at Harrison and Morningside.

Physicist says flying saucers 'real'

By GEORGE WILEY

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Take me to your leader! Fantasy? Yes, said nuclear physicist Stanton T. Friedman — because there isn't a leader. But the flying saucers? The flying saucers, Stanton believes, are real.

"The evidence for flying saucer reality is very much better than the evidence against most convicted criminals, I would say," Friedman told the Times-News Wednesday, before a lecture on the subject at CSI.

He said every major study of unidentified flying objects, including studies by the Air Force and the University of Colorado, "has produced a substantial number of cases that point to intelligently controlled extraterrestrial vehicles."

Thirty per cent of the sightings in the Colorado study, Friedman said, could not be identified as earth originated objects, including sightings by orbiting astronauts.

An analysis of objects sighted which were later identified as earthly vehicles or phenomena compared by characteristics of size, color, shape and so on to sighted objects which were never identified, showed, Friedman said, that the probability they were the same types of objects was less than one per cent.

Friedman calls himself the "Ralph Nader of the UFO world." He has been researching flying saucers for more than 13 years.

A physics graduate of the University of Chicago, Friedman worked as a physicist for 14 years for General Electric, Aerojet General, General Motors and Westinghouse and other firms. In the late 1960's he decided to devote himself full time to lecturing on UFOs.

Agnew pressure reports denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House denied again today that anyone in authority was pressuring Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to resign because he is under federal investigation in connection with alleged political corruption in his home state of Maryland.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren also dismissed a Washington Post report quoting an unidentified Eastern Republican as saying he had been told by a top White House official that Agnew's resignation was expected within the "next few weeks" and would give President Nixon "an opportunity to set a whole new tone to the administration."

That statement, Warren said, "absolutely does not reflect the thinking of the President." Asked directly if Nixon wants Agnew to quit, Warren said: "We will have no comment on this entire matter until the attorney general completes his work. Any comment would be improper and unfair."

Agnew, who repeatedly has denied any wrongdoing, is under investigation for possible violation of bribery, tax fraud, extortion and conspiracy laws — presumably because of allegations that he was involved in a political kickback scheme in which some Maryland politicians received money from architectural and engineering firms doing business with the state and local governments.

Warren's comments at the regular White House morning news briefing came after Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Agnew must be considered "innocent until proven guilty" and given "the benefit of the doubt" now.

Maryland panel meets

(c) Washington Star-News

BALTIMORE — A special grand jury investigating political corruption in Maryland meets here today, but is not expected to receive evidence against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew until at least next week.

Federal prosecutors in Baltimore were expected to continue presenting witnesses dealing with Baltimore County figures during today's session, as they continue to gear up to start what has been termed "the Agnew phase" of the investigation.

Additional indictments of Baltimore County political figures have been expected since the grand jury indicted county executive Dale Anderson Aug. 23 on conspiracy, bribery, and extortion charges. Agnew has been notified he is under investigation for similar violations.

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson has given United States Attorney George Beall his approval to present Agnew evidence to the grand jury.

Schlesinger raps Nixon stands

E. VINELAND, N. J. (UPI) — Former White House aide Arthur M. Schlesinger told a $100-a-plate Democrat fund raising dinner Wednesday President Nixon has plunged the nation into a constitutional crisis.

He said the crisis results from Nixon's "supremacy" attitude, violations of the constitution by permitting bombing in Cambodia, impoundment of Congressional funds and refusing to release Watergate-connected tapes.

CSI shifts education priorities

By BILL LAZARUS

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho has begun to shift its educational priorities in response to the decreased interest in academic courses, according to CSI President James L. Taylor.

The college reported academic enrollment this fall is 1,200 — down 187 students from last year.

Meanwhile, interest in vocational education has developed so rapidly that CSI cannot meet the demand. Dr. Taylor said more than 200 applicants could not be accepted into career-oriented programs at the college this year because of lack of space. Enrollment for vocational education classes reached a record high of 352, up from 304 last year.

Although no lay-offs are expected, a shift in faculty is occurring, Taylor said.

He said one social science and one English teacher, who have left CSI, have not been replaced.

Also, CSI has moved two faculty members out of the English Department into the Study Skills Center where primary subjects such as reading, writing and arithmetic are taught, Taylor said. Taylor predicted a continuation of the declining interest in academic courses. He said students are realizing they do not have to take a "prescribed education" program which educators develop. Instead they are studying courses which teach particular skills or which fulfill individual interest.

Expansion of the vocational education program at CSI depends upon obtaining more state and federal funds, Taylor said. He mentioned that requests are being made for more money.

Currently, the most rapidly expanding program at CSI is special education. The college reported Thursday that enrollment in special education classes reached a record high this fall.

Marvin Glasscock, CSI special education director, said the program now offers about 34 short, non-credit courses to the public ranging from Aviation Ground School to Beginning Young. New special education courses this year include Techniques of Retail Selling, Checker Cashier Training, Salesmanship, Improving Your Personality and a series of six, three-session seminars for businessmen.

Additional special education classes will not shift funds away from other CSI programs, according to Glasscock. "It kind of runs itself," he said explaining that the course fees pay the costs of instruction.

Regarding the decreased enrollment in academic classes, Jerry Meyerhoeffer, CSI director of admissions, said "It has been a national trend. Even in Idaho there is more competition for students than there has ever been."

Idaho PUC may curtail electricity

BOISE (UPI)—The state Attorney General's office says the Idaho Public Utilities Commission (PUC) has authority to order electric utilities to cut services to customers in time of emergency.

In an opinion released by the office Wednesday, state attorneys said the IPUC has full authority to order electric utilities under its jurisdiction to curtail delivery of both interruptible and firm load electrical energy to users in Idaho following a hearing.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, who earlier asked the Attorney General for the opinion, said the authority of the Public Utilities Commission in the event of a power shortage is "one more tool in our arsenal."

"The decision clearly gives the state of Idaho, through the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, the authority necessary to allocate electrical energy if we do face an energy crisis," Andrus said.

"I feel this is just one more tool in our arsenal should we need it in the event an energy crisis arrives on the scene. I am confident that if a crisis develops we can react quickly and effectively," the governor said.

Attorney General W. Anthony Parks said the curtailment would be "in such a manner as the commission determines to be necessary in the public interest."

He said it follows that if the commission can order curtailments, then utilities should not be liable. Otherwise, "the authority of the commission to so order would be meaningless."

Idaho Power Co. says Customers are first

BOISE (UPI)—The president of Idaho Power Company reiterated today his company will meet its legal obligations to its customers but will help neighboring states "within the law, in good judgment."

"As far as we are able to go, we are able to take care of our firm customers this winter," said Albert Carlsen, Boise.

He said before the company could interrupt its services to its firm customers "we would require authority from some agency that has the authority to issue those orders."

In a telephone interview Carlsen said either the Public Utilities Commission or the Federal Power Commission "or another entity set up for such an emergency" could have authority to determine what customers Idaho Power would continue serving in event of a power emergency in the northwestern states.

Buhl man files suit over auto accident

TWIN FALLS — Phillip DeWitt, Buhl, is seeking $75,000 plus medical and automobile losses in a damage suit filed in Fifth District Court against Buchanan Trucking Co. and Margie Holmes.

The suit results from a traffic accident June 23, 1973, in which Olvin Junior Buchanan, California, was killed and DeWitt injured. The accident occurred at the junction of U. S. Highways 93 and 30 west of Twin Falls.

The complaint says Buchanan was employed by the trucking firm and was on a business trip for the firm at the time of the accident. Buchanan was driving approximately 85 miles per hour and was intoxicated when he drove onto U. S. Highway 30 from 93, striking the DeWitt vehicle, the complaint charges.

DeWitt asks $1,200 medical expenses, $600 for loss of his pickup truck and $75,000 general damages as a result of permanent injuries.

Church votes against Radio Free Europe fund

(Special to the Times-News)
WASHINGTON — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, told the Times-News he voted against a bill to appropriate $50 million for Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty because:

"The Voice of America can penetrate every corner of East Europe and the Soviet Union. If these stations serve a valid purpose then I think that the Western European nations should share the cost."

Idaho's Republican Sen. James McClure voted in favor of the bill.

"I supported Sen. Fulbright's amendment which would have limited U. S. contributions to 50 per cent of the total cost of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty," Church said.

"When the Fulbright amendment failed to pass, I voted against the bill as a protest against continuing total American financing. I do not think the American taxpayer should continue to bear the total cost of these broadcasts."

The bill to continue support of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty passed by a vote of 79 to 10.

In other action on Capitol Hill the National School Lunch and Child Nutrition Act amendment of 1973 was passed overwhelmingly with Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, voting in support of the bill.

Among four negative votes was Idaho's first district Rep. Steven C. Symms. Symms also voted against lifting the TV blackout of professional football games that are sold out. The bill was supported by Rep. Hansen.

Sen. Church and Sen. McClure both voted for adoption of a proposal limiting to $75,000 the amount corporations may deduct from taxes as finance executive pensions.

The Senate passed the measure 89-2.

In the House, Rep. Symms, R-Idaho, cast a negative vote as President Nixon's veto of the minimum wage bill was upheld. The House vote was 259-164, 23 votes short of overriding the veto.

Rep. Hansen was listed as not voting.

Employees named in suit

TWIN FALLS — Circle A Construction Co., Inc., has filed suit in Fifth District Court against a former employee who has allegedly been operating a construction company under the name Circle C Construction Co.

Named as defendants in the suit are Dale Childers, the alleged former Circle A employee and Donald Sullivan, both doing business as Circle C Construction Co.

Circle A alleges that it has operated under the Circle A name in Twin Falls since 1954, with the only change being to become Circle A, Incorporated, in 1965.

The suit says "the standing and reputation" of Circle A's business has been injured by use of a similar name by the other company.

The suit seeks $5,000 in damages and asks for a permanent injunction against the use of Circle C name.

In a counter action, attorneys for Circle C have asked that the suit be dismissed for "failure to state a claim to which relief can be granted."

Fairness persists

It's hard enough to believe that in America, narcotics agents, looking and behaving like common hoodlums, can break into decent people's homes without a search warrant and terrorize them at gunpoint.

What is even harder to believe is that when the mistake is publicly acknowledged — and the mistake has been made — a distressing number of times around the country — the neighbors of the victims harass them as if they, not the perpetrators of the crime, were the guilty ones.

This at any rate is what happened to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gigliotto of Collinsville, Ill. After they complained about an illegal drug raid on their home last April they began receiving anonymous late-night telephone calls. Their cars were damaged while parked. Their close relatives also became targets of harassment.

The Gigliottos were finally forced to move and to take up new lives in another state.

The people who did the things that were done to them are the same kind of people who threw rocks through Jewish store windows in Germany back in the 1930s after the Nazis gave the go-ahead.

And lest anyone argue that "it can't happen here," we need only remind ourselves that the Watergate burglars acted in the belief that they had the blessing of high authority.

Nevertheless, there have been other stories in the news that restore one's faith and indicate that it will take a lot more than criminals with badges or "overzealous" public servants to make it "happen here."

Great migration

There's a great migration of population taking place across the country these days — especially weekdays from about a o'clock in the morning to 4 in the afternoon. Millions of school-age children are leaving their homes to make the trek back to school.

Most kids will tell you that they don't want to go back to the disciplines of the classrooms, but we have a quiet suspicion that by this time of the year boredom has set in and mothers hear the question, "what can we do?", more often than they can answer it.

Old school-time friendships will be renewed and new friendships formed as new kids move into the school. It is a most important time of life for the youngsters and their whole lives are being molded and influenced even though it may be done so subtly that it is not realized.

For adults it is a time of heightened responsibility and carefulness. Those of us with children in school are sharply aware of the problems and perils which beset the youngsters. Perhaps those whose children have long since finished formal education need be reminded again.

We cannot expect to find adult wisdom or carefulness in the children, whether they are in first grade or lofty high school seniors. They will be careless, they will take chances.

So, we, their elders must be doubly cautious that no injury comes to our successors as they start the process of life's education. Extreme driving caution at

Though the Gigliottos and others in their situation may doubt it, and they have all the reason in the world to doubt it, there is still a strong and fundamental residue of belief in fair play in America.

One of the latest proofs of this was a Florida jury's dismissal, almost with disgust, of the government's case against the so-called "Gainesville Eight," a group of antiwar Vietnam veterans charged with plotting to disrupt by violent means the Republican National Convention in Miami in 1972.

The Gainesville acquittal made it eight straight times the government has fallen on its face in trying to win convictions against antiwar activists. The list includes Dr. Spock, Daniel Ellsberg of the Pentagon Papers and the famed "Chicago Seven."

Now the juries in Gainesville and in the other trials may not have particularly liked the look, beliefs or life styles of the accused. But they liked even less the spectacle of the United States government, with all its enormous power, building these cases on the testimony of paid informers, undercover infiltrators or an agent provocateur who, in at least one of the eight trials, planned and directed the very crime the defendants were accused of.

No, "it can't happen here" — not as long as true Americans can still express their will through the jury system and the ballot box.

And that, to use the words of President Nixon in his recent press conference, is really what "the urgent business of America," is all about.

school opening and closing hours is necessary. When "school's out" kids throw caution away and tend to shed their carefulness as they shed their confinement.

Automobiles are one of their worst enemies. Every year children who started to school so bravely and cheerfully wind up as accident victims with varying degrees of injuries. Some never finish their school year.

Motorists need to be especially careful in school zones and near school busses. Kids will dart across the street and will run in front of busses, oblivious of the danger of a passing automobile.

Autumn winds, rains and shortening days make the task of the driver a most exacting one. Soon daylight saving will be ended for the winter months and dusk will set in earlier, making driver visibility more difficult.

We think that there could be no more haunting, sleep-destroying remorse than to have accidentally injured a child, or even worse killed one in a thoughtless moment or in failure to observe posted speed limits, or a school bus's flashing red lights, signifying that children are disembarking and may be crossing the street.

Every year newspaper writers prepare a piece something like this and to some of our readers it may seem to be a shopworn cliché. We don't think so. If it should save one child from serious accident it is a labor of love which could be extremely rewarding.

So, we must drive carefully, they are our children.

Wallace ghostwriter arrives

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The unobtrusive arrival here of a ghostwriter commissioned by Doubleday and Co. to write the definitive autobiography of Gov. George Wallace for pre-1976 publication is the latest sign that Wallace's confinement to a wheelchair may be no greater political hazard than it was to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"This chair makes it more difficult," Wallace told us in his office. "But it doesn't stop me from being governor."

That was late one evening last week, following a two-hour meeting of the state building commission presided over by the governor. As we left at 7 p.m., Wallace's legislative leaders arrived for another hour's conference.

Having recovered from his internal wounds and suffering only minor periods of light pain, Wallace is beginning to think like a presidential candidate again. His mind is as sharp as it was before he was nearly thrashed by an assassin 16 months ago. Indeed, the talk in Wallaceland of yet another presidential campaign in 1976, with the Democratic party's vice presidential nomination the real goal, cannot be dismissed as nonsense.

When we last visited a fatigued and pain-ridden Wallace a year ago, he could not stop reminiscing about his phenomenal 1972 primary victories, particularly his sweep in the liberal Democratic bastion of Michigan.

In contrast, Wallace's five 1972 winning primaries plus the five states he won in his third-party-presidential campaign of 1968 are mentioned today only in passing. Wallace is now looking ahead, attacking his lips with anticipation and plotting a powerful role in what he calls the "rejuvenation" of the shattered Democratic party.

He has been holding quiet talks with former aides who long ago left him. While avoiding hard offers of political employment, Wallace is making it clear that he wants and needs serious professional help from these old presidential hands. The goal: to rebuild a competent staff of Alabamaans for 1976. Among them is the astute Bill Jones, Wallace's oldest political adviser who left shortly after managing Wallace's 1968 third-party campaign; his talents were sorely missed in the inadequately organized 1972 campaign.

Jones and other Wallaceites are impressed by the miraculous physical improvement of the governor, which has restored his psychological health and ended long periods of deep depression. To them, 1976 looks more promising than the governor's passes at the presidency in 1964, 1968 and 1972.

Wallace is dealing today with a shattered Democratic party which, with the sole exception of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, has no recognizable center of power. Moreover, he is dealing with it from a position of complete dominance at home and wearing what his idolaters perceive as the mystical mantle of a hero miraculously immune from death-by-assassination.

That perception is so strong in Alabama that Republican state chairman Richard Bennett is advising his party not to field any candidate for governor next year when Wallace runs for reelection.

Thus, with only token Democratic opposition in next spring's primary election, Wallace could well sweep to his third term as Alabama's governor with an astounding 70 to 75 per cent of the vote.

One possible contender, former Gov. Albert Brewer, was barely defeated by Wallace in the 1970 primary. But today Brewer confronts a dismal statewide poll which the Wallace camp says was conducted for Brewer by national pollster Oliver Quayle. It shows Wallace ahead of Brewer by over 40 percentage points, according to Wallaceites.

Wallace, in short, appears stronger than ever after his near-assassination, a political fact the national Democratic party cannot ignore as it staggers out of the quicksands of 1972.

Although his old political power was built on a pledge of total racial segregation, Wallace today talks not about race but about the rights of "little people." The populist has eclipsed the segregationist.

Kennedy's speech for Wallace at Decatur, Ala., last July, illustrated that no Northern Democrat can afford to ignore Wallace's huge following in the South or his populist appeal everywhere. Thus, unlikely though it sounds today, Wallace may well find himself powerful enough in 1976 either to exercise a veto over the Democratic party's presidential nominee or compel that nominee to take him on the ticket.

Such a turn of political events since his attempted murder in 1972 would be astonishing and incongruous. But over the last decade, the astonishing and incongruous have become the hallmark of American politics, as Richard Nixon — and now George Wallace — are discovering.

White House resignation source?

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro Agnew's supporters believe the White House is actively campaigning, with President Nixon's concurrence, to force Agnew's resignation. Newspaper accounts that Agnew may be planning to resign soon, in the face of a possible federal grand jury indictment on kickback charges, are considered by past and present associates of the Vice President to be "inspired" by White House sources.

The failure of a presidential spokesman to go beyond a mere "no comment" on the latest resignation report was seen as further evidence that, in the words of one Agnew supporter, "they're out to get the Vice President."

Deputy press secretary Gerald Warren simply refused to comment Tuesday on a Washington Post story quoting an unnamed "Republican party leader" to the effect that Agnew may resign voluntarily this week. Warren stonewalled a barrage of questions after discussing how to respond to the story with the President.

The flat "no comment" served to feed speculation that Mr. Nixon has cut Agnew adrift. It also sparked new suspicions among Agnew sympathizers that Agnew's plight is welcomed in the oval office as a diversion from the battle over the Watergate tapes and the pending indictments of more former White House aides.

Agnew's press spokesman, J. Marsh Thomson, denied the story that Agnew was on the verge of resigning. "He's prepared to fight," Thomson said.

question of resigning has never been discussed with me."

Agnew's associates have suspected Laird ever since the disclosure that he advised at least one and possibly more Republican congressmen to remain noncommittal and not rush to the defense of the Vice President after the news broke that he was under investigation for possible criminal violations. Laird later said he was not suggesting Agnew's possible guilt but offering prudent advice until more was known about the inquiry.

Vic Gold, a former press secretary to Agnew, has strongly implied a guest column in the current issue of Newsweek magazine that White House supporters of former treasury secretary John Connally had once boasted they intended "to cut Agnew down to size" and were going to give him what they called "the White House Chinese water treatment."

Gold whimsically charged that Laird and presidential chief of staff Alexander Haig had taken up where former Nixon aides, John Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, left off in leaking adverse information about Agnew. Gold predicted that Agnew would not quit, "come hell or high water."

Gold, who also served Goldwater as a press aide, in his 1964 campaign as the GOP presidential candidate, said in an interview that Agnew's resignation was "inconceivable to me."

He said that Agnew was "a Mediterranean, inclined to all around contemplating his problems," and that it was possible that he might have snapped at a low moment about checking it all. But the newspaper report, Gold added, was probably an account of Agnew's mood exaggerated out of proportion by the source.

Although Gold expressed the belief the White House was "out to get Agnew" as a diversion from Watergate, the Vice President "is not going to walk out. He'll sit right there. He'll not budge. He has no alternative without seeming to admit guilt."

The White House reaction to Agnew's difficulties has varied over the last several weeks. At his San Clemente news conference last Aug. 22, the President voiced his confidence in the integrity of Agnew and deplored leaks about the investigation of Agnew: "Convicting an individual — not only trying him but convicting him — in the headlines and on television before he has had a chance to present his case in court is completely contrary to the American tradition," Nixon said.

The President's apparent "defense" of Agnew was viewed by the Vice President's men as something less than wholehearted. They were further dismayed when the White House announced the President was flying back to Washington just before Labor Day and would meet with Agnew.

That announcement gave rise to speculation at the time that Agnew was prepared to tell Nixon he was resigning. Because the speculation emanated from San Clemente, Agnew's sympathizers were firmly convinced it was inspired by White House officials.

On the Saturday before Labor Day, Nixon and his Vice President met alone for two hours, discussing Agnew's case. No details were supplied by either side. Subsequently, Agnew went to Illinois for a political speech and defended the President and scored the Senate Watergate committee.

In his Newsweek column, Gold asked, "and what about that boulevard of administration loyalty we've heard so much about? Is it a one-way street? When Watergate broke, there stood Agnew, front and center, defending Nixon. But when Elliot (Attorney-General Elliot Richardson) sent his letter over from justice, you got the queasy feeling that maybe George McGovern had been elected after all. I mean, there was the president of the U. S. standing 1,000 per cent behind his vice president."

Ex-Demo Connally meets GOP groups

(c) New York Times News Service
CHICAGO — The band played "the eyes of Texas are upon you" and a huge slide was projected before the audience of 2,000 farmers that said: "Honorable John B. Connally, a distinguished American."

An impeccably-tailored man, not a steel-gray hair out of place, bounded to the rostrum to deliver an off-the-cuff speech that was alternately folksy, erudite on the subject of American trade, optimistic about the nation's future and just plain hammy.

The audience loved it and Connally, one of the earliest traveling "noncandidates" for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination, stayed around after receiving a standing ovation on Friday to shake hands with delegates to the shareholders' meeting of P. S. Services, Inc., a regional farm cooperative with member companies in Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin.

The speech and an ensuing news conference, with a pro forma statement of equivocation by Connally, on the subject of whether or not he is running for the Republican nomination for President, were but two stops for the former Democrat in a busy week during which he kicked off a heavily scheduled 60-day nationwide speaking tour.

Scattered among the public speeches are private meetings with Republican State officials and local "fat cats" whose contributions to the party's coffers earn them the privilege of looking over potential candidates.

Connally's basic speech was summarized by one of his aides as "stand up for America" — a theme general enough so that it can be tailored to suit audiences.

Before the farmers' group Connally warmed up the audience by saying that while "we live at the time of the greatest change" it was not so radical as the change experienced by the married couple who believed in reincarnation.

On the first anniversary of the husband's death, the wife arranged a séance to communicate with the departed, Connally said, and asked: "How are things up there?" "Wonderful," the deceased replied, "the sky is azure blue, the grass is succulent green and there are wonderful helpers." She: "You have helpers in heaven?" He: "Heaven? What do you mean? I'm a bull in Montana."

Then, audience primed, he talked at length about the nation's economic strength, declaring that the country was entering an era "of economic diplomacy."

He was applauded when he discussed the high prices being paid farmers these days.

"I'm a farmer, I've always been a farmer," Connally who is a partner in a large-Houston law firm, said. "My father was a tenant farmer. Maybe we're getting something like a reasonable price for what we produce."

Discussing inflation, he cautioned that on the international economic scene "we no longer are the masters of our own fate. The rule of interest paid to the Bank of England affects the rate of interest in the United States."

America's ability to produce needed foodstuffs is a great economic weapon, Connally said, adding: "The agricultural segment of this country ought to be turned loose to produce every single thing that can be sold at world markets."

When specifically mentioning Watergate by name, he cautioned against pessimism because politicians were "human and plagued with human frailties."

The crowd came to its feet when he concluded with remarks that the U.S. was "the most compassionate country

ACLU hits judge for gag ruling

(c) 1973 Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica has been accused of violating freedom of speech and press rights by barring convicted Watergate figures James McCord Jr. and Jeb Stuart Magruder from giving lectures or press interviews.

The American Civil Liberties Union asked Sirica to withdraw the GAG order he issued against both men pending their sentencing.

Lawyers for McCord and Magruder have declined to appeal the judge's order. Both men are hoping for suspended or very light sentences in return for cooperating with the Watergate special prosecutor and the Senate Watergate Committee.

Judge Sirica based his decision on two separate grounds. First, he said that both McCord and Magruder would probably be witnesses at any future Watergate trials and their lectures or press interviews would create "prejudicial" pre-trial publicity. Second: He said that he did not approve of McCord or Magruder profiting by their "wrongdoing."

The Magruder-McCord gag orders highlight what is going to be an increasing free speech problem involving Watergate. Lawyers associated with some Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox also opposed lecture by McCord on the grounds that it would create "additional pre-trial publicity."

The ACLU took the position that "a citizen does not lose his first amendment right because he is arrested; charged or convicted of a crime. He must be free to speak his mind on any subject before, during or after a criminal trial."

The ACLU also said that the GAG order violates "not only the rights of Mr. McCord and Mr. Magruder but the rights of all Americans who wish to be informed about the events in which prominent persons played a vital role."

Magruder is reportedly in need of money to support his wife and four children and hoped lecture fees would help. He has opened an economic consulting office, Metropolitan Research Services and reportedly has been able to attract some small jobs. McCord also is said to be in need of money.

Magruder and McCord are based on the assumption that there will be more indictments in Watergate, that those indicted will go to trial and that Magruder and McCord will be called as witnesses. Both men are out on their own concept because McCord and Magruder are being denied recognition pending free speech rights in order to protect unknown third parties who may be indicted in the future.

Minimum wage legislation to be reintroduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee said today he is ready to start work "as soon as possible" on a new bill to increase the present $1.60 minimum wage.

Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., said he will talk with fellow Democrats on his panel and with Speaker Carl Albert on the prospects of a new bill. Perkins' announcement came after House Wednesday failed to override President Nixon's veto of a Democratic measure to raise the minimum to $2.20 by July 1, 1974.

The House voted 250-164 to override, but this fell 23 votes short of the needed two-thirds majority of those voting to beat the veto. It was the sixth consecutive veto victory for Nixon this year.

Nixon approved the 60-cent increase in less than a year as inflationary. He had proposed earlier raising the minimum to $1.90 immediately and go to $2.30 over a three year period.

Rep. Albert H. Quill, R-Minn., senior GOP member on Perkins' panel, said his party colleagues were ready to sit down immediately and start drafting a new bill that Nixon would accept.

"I personally feel that we got to get a bill one of these days. I'd like to vote on one tomorrow," Perkins told UPI. "I think we should get together as soon as possible and start out all over again."

Perkins' chief lieutenant on the committee as far as minimum wage legislation is concerned, is Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., who managed the vetoed bill. He said earlier no new bill would clear the committee if he had anything to do with it.

After the vote to sustain the veto-Dent said: "Sure I'm willing to get out a new bill but only if it's more generous than the one that was vetoed."

Senate approves pension measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate has passed a bill to assure 38 million working people that the pensions they anticipate will be available when they retire.

The measure would also give tax advantages to induce millions more—the self-employed and workers whose companies do not offer pensions—to provide for their retirement years.

The bill was approved by a 93-0 vote Wednesday night despite some criticism that it promised too much and didn't do enough. It was sent to the House, where Speaker Carl Albert has promised to give the matter top priority this year.

The bill's chief provision would require that anyone who works more than five years under a pension plan will receive, upon reaching retirement age, at least a fraction of a full pension.

Senate studies showed that only a minority of the 38 million workers enrolled under 20,000 differing pension plans would actually receive payments. Many of the plans pay nothing unless the worker stays on until age 60 or 65.

But nothing in the bill compels an employer to establish a pension plan or fixes the amount of pensions. Those matters are left to labor-management bargaining. The average pension paid today amounts to $141 a month.

Other provisions insure pension funds so workers would collect even if their companies fail and require employers to get aside, over 30 years, enough money to meet their pension obligations.

The $2,500 which existing law permits the self-employed to deduct from taxes and invest toward retirement would be tripled to $7,500.

Unions to withdraw congressmen aid

(c) Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — Some labor unions planned to seek defeat of congressmen from swing districts who voted to sustain President Nixon's veto of a bill to raise the US minimum wage from $1.60 to $2.20 an hour.

The AFL-CIO's political arm, the Committee on Political Education (COPE), decided to make Wednesday's roll call a "key vote" in deciding whether to extend labor support to House members.

Some of its affiliated unions, however, believe the legislation is so important that the veto vote should be effective in compelling a list of political friends and foes.

The House failed by 23 votes to overcome Nixon's veto as 135 Republicans and 29 Democrats combined to block re-passage of the wage bill.

The upshot of the successful veto may be a stalemate and no legislation at all this year or next to raise the $1.60 hourly rate or extend its coverage.

Backers of the President said he would insist on a lower minimum wage for teen-agers while the chief Democratic sponsors of the bill declared they would not compromise on that issue.

Skylab 2 astronauts film light source

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Skylab 2 astronauts today photographed X-ray light sources several thousand light years from earth and tested their disabled Apollo command ship to make sure they have a way to get back home Tuesday.

Packing as much scientific investigation as they can into the final days of their two-month voyage, Alan B. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma used their solar-observatory telescopes to make a dozen pictures of an unusual blue star in the Scorpio constellation.

The special telescopic cameras may give a fairly accurate reading of the amount of X-ray energy coming from the star, which is estimated to be from several hundred to several thousand light years from this planet.

The astronauts also made their next-to-last picture-taking sweep over 3,300 miles of the United States.

Massachusetts stations end protest shutdowns

By United Press International

Gas station operators in Massachusetts said today they would end their protest shutdown, but they vowed they would do it again if the Nixon administration refuses to change its mind on price controls.

"We've proven our point and we don't want the public to suffer any more," said John Bell, a Mobil station operator in the Boston suburb of Lexington.

Hundreds of stations across the state remained closed Wednesday for a second day despite a court order to stay open. The gasoline dealers were protesting a Cost of Living Council ruling that bars stations from passing on to their customers a penny-a-gallon increase charged by the oil companies.

Harold Murphy, who runs a station in Springfield, Mass., agreed that the point had been made, but he added, "At the same time if they don't go our way by the end of this month or clearly next we are prepared to go out again."

In Washington, Charles Binsted, president of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, said he believed some relief was in sight legislatively or through the Cost of Living Council.

"It's gotta come, or there will be shutdowns all over, for whatever reason," he said.

"It is impossible to tell the effect, in exact numbers, of Phase IV price controls," Binsted said. "We have a goodly number go out of business each year. Some do not necessarily go broke, but the business does not give them the income they need to get by... And, I tell you, we do not need government euthanasia to help us along."

In Houston, meanwhile, the Gulf Oil Co. said it would immediately increase wholesale prices by nine-tenths of a cent per gallon. The firm said the increase was justified by higher costs.

Chrysler worker tally due Sunday

DETROIT (UPI) —Chrysler Corp.'s 117,000 U.S. and Canadian production workers on strike since midnight Friday, began voting today on a new three-year contract that could end their walkout by Monday.

Minutes after the UAW's Chrysler council approved the tentative agreement with seven dissenting votes Wednesday, UAW President Leonard Woodcock predicted overwhelming rank-and-file ratification. The first votes were at plants in Windsor, Ont. The final tally was due by Sunday afternoon.

Woodcock said the contract contained at least five "breakthroughs," including gains in such areas as health and safety, voluntary overtime, humanization of the work place, equalization of wages between U.S. and Canadian workers and improved pensions.

But there was some opposition to the package during the nearly six-hour meeting of the 240 Chrysler council delegates. Many voiced objections to the wage settlement, which will give the man on the assembly line 25 cents more an hour in the first year of the contract and 3 per cent more in the second and third year.

"The trouble is that the membership for the past two years has been telling the negotiators to go after voluntary overtime and bigger pensions," explained one delegate.

"Well they got the bigger pensions and they got the overtime settled, but inflation has been killing the average guy in the past couple of months and now he says he wants it all in wages," he said.

But Woodcock pointed out that the 25-cent-an-hour boost was the second highest in the UAW's history.

The union finished all negotiations with Chrysler Wednesday when it agreed to a tentative contract for the 10,500 salaried workers it represents at Chrysler.

Chile junta moving slow

(c) Chicago Daily News
SANTIAGO — It will be days, if not weeks, before the ruling military junta will be able to present its plans to the nation for rebuilding the wrecked economy.
This was acknowledged Wednesday by spokesmen for the ruling group which toppled the government of President Salvador Allende in the lightning, but bloody, coup last week.
Observers of Chilean politics agree that the politically inexperienced military is not prepared, and will not be for some time, to deal with the problems that Allende faced and which the neighboring Argentine generals finally gave up on, before turning the government of their nation back to civilian authorities in March.
The role of political parties, especially the dominant Christian Democrats — is still a big question mark. For the foreseeable future they have no role, and they are being very circumspect in their attitude as to assure themselves a future.
Dr. Eduardo Frei Montalva, the leading Christian Democrat and former president, is not even granting interviews.
It was expected in some quarters here that the major force in any future reorganization of the government will be the organized business and professional groups, or "gremios" (guilds), which might be so all-inclusive as to include a national labor group.
Associations of truckers spearheaded the resistance to the Allende government, with nationwide strikes last year and this year. Professional groups such as lawyers also joined in short stoppages to protest Allende policies.

Officials air '69 Kraft probe

(c) New York Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration ordered a high-ranking FBI official to follow Joseph Kraft, the syndicated columnist, to Paris in 1969 and to arrange with the French government to keep him under electronic and physical surveillance during the visit.
Sources with knowledge of the operation said that because of the administration's "concern" about Kraft's contacts with representatives of the North Vietnamese government and the Vietcong, J. Edgar Hoover, the late director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, sent one of his top assistants to Paris, where Kraft and his family were vacationing, in June of 1969.
The assistant, William C. Sullivan, who was then in charge of the Bureau's domestic intelligence division, contacted the director of De La Securite Du Territoire, the French equivalent of the FBI, which carried out the surveillance operation.
Kraft's room in the Hotel George V, near the Arc De Triomphe, was bugged by the French security agents, who also tapped his telephone and followed him around the clock.
The sources said that the 24-hour surveillance was continued by the FBI after Kraft returned from France to his home in the Georgetown section of Washington.

Bannock probes misconduct charge

POCATELLO (UPI) — Bannock County Prosecutor announced today he has advised the FBI of the possibility Federal Civil Rights laws were violated by agents working for the Idaho Bureau of Narcotics and Drug Enforcement.

During a news conference, Prosecutor Garin Pincock said he wants "to assure the public that this office has been pursuing a vigorous investigation into all allegations of official misconduct which we have received."

Pincock made the comment in reference to complaints on the performance of some bureau agents.

In response to the comments made by Pincock, Attorney General W. Anthony Park, whose office oversees the narcotics bureau, said:

"Any allegations against my agents will be thoroughly investigated by my office and if they prove to be true appropriate disciplinary action will be taken."

"I certainly have no objections and welcome the inquiry, if there is to be one, by the FBI," said Park.

Pincock said he called the news conference because "there is a climate of divergent political pressures within the county."

He said he feels the pressure "and other people are feeling pressures."

He said "people want me to move one way or another on the filings of complaints for which we have no basis at this time."

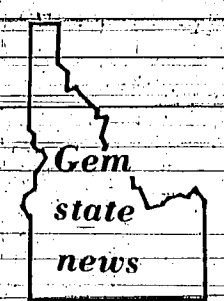

Pincock during questioning said he feels the second round of trouble at the Pocatello office in less than one year could be "traced to bureau high-ups, but did not specify names of who might be at fault."

When asked about the investigation of Pocatello City Councilman Melvin Morgan, Pincock said, "in my mind, he never was condemned."

Therefore, there never was any need for exoneration.

Morgan was cleared of involvement in narcotics through a lie detector test.

Pincock said he feels the police and sheriff's office do not now have the structure and facilities needed for narcotics enforcement but with funding they would be capable of the task.

Farm land leased

PRESTON, Idaho (UPI) — While the state is deciding how to disperse leases for geothermal power, private enterprise is starting to acquire private land for surveys into the potential energy source.

The Sun Oil Corp., Dallas, Tex., has acquired leases on farm land in the Preston area and plans to begin surveys within a week for geothermal resources.

E.T. Vincent, Preston, who negotiated the leases for Sun Oil and the Preston farmers, said the area might be the first in the state to successfully produce electricity through underground heated water.

Vincent said nine farmers are involved at this time in the private leasing.

Andrus backs AG opinion

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus called an attorney general's opinion on the authority of the Public Utilities Commission in the event of a power shortage "one more tool in our arsenal."

"This decision clearly gives the state of Idaho through the Idaho Public Utilities Commission the authority necessary to allocate electrical energy if we do face an energy crisis," said Andrus.

"I feel this is just one more tool in our arsenal should we need it in the event an energy crisis arrives on the scene. I am confident that if a crisis develops we can react quickly and effectively."

He said the decision "rules out the need for a special session of the Idaho legislature and therefore, will save the taxpayers of Idaho approximately $10,000, which would be the probable cost of a special session."

Andrus noted he had received assurances from Public Utilities Companies in Idaho that they could take care of Idaho customers. The question arises because the state is tied into a power pool with other northwestern states and Idaho's service depends on the well-being to some extent of the downstream states.

"If the situation does become a true crisis, with downstream areas of the downstream states blacked out, the Federal Power Commission of its own authority could step in," said Andrus.

Andrus.

The governor said the Federal Power Commission probably could order its dams to dump water in event of a crisis, allowing generation of power for the downstream states.

"I don't want an energy situation in Oregon and Washington to cause Idaho users to curtail their use of electricity in order to sustain electricity and therefore employment in another state," said Andrus.

"I am hired to represent the people of Idaho, not Oregon and Washington."

Andrus said, he would maintain that position at the governors' conference this weekend in Washington state.

Andrus opposes university plan

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has taken a stand on the controversial plan to make the university of Idaho the senior state institution of higher learning in Idaho.

Andrus told the Lewiston Morning Tribune he opposes the plan which he called "one man's plan put out before the Board of Education for discussion and I am sure it will be thoroughly discussed."

The plan, put together by the Director of Office of Higher Education, Milton Small, described U of I as the state's "senior university" and said it should be the center for research and doctoral programs. Small relegated the role of Idaho State University, Boise State College, and Lewis Clark State College to a secondary level and the two junior colleges to a third level.

Andrus said the plan as presented would require legislative action, and he does not see the Idaho legislature enacting such a plan.

"This smacks of a one university system which I opposed as a member of the legislature and personally oppose now," Andrus said.

Asked if Andrus would make his wishes known to the Board of Education, a spokesman for the chief executive said "As a rule the governor does not give instruction to his board members and there would probably be no exception in this case."

Wage suit filed in TF court

TWIN FALLS — A $10,000 wage claim suit has been filed in Fifth District Court against Times News-Ace Printing Co. In the suit, Howard Gibbs, the plaintiff, alleges that he was hired by the commercial printing firm in Oct. 1971 for a salary of $200 a week plus 5 per cent of the gross profits of the business.

Gibbs further claims that in April of this year he was discharged by the company without having been paid the profit incentive. Gibbs claims the firm's gross profits during the term of his employment exceeded $200,000.

Gibbs seeks $7,500 in unpaid wages, penalty wages of $800, attorney fees of $2,500, plus court costs.

In a defendant's answer, Times News-Ace Printing agreed that Gibbs was employed and paid a salary of $200 a week, but the company denied that Gibbs was ever promised 5 per cent of the gross profits. The company asked that the suit be dismissed.

Jobless grow 6 per cent

TWIN FALLS — The civilian labor force in Twin Falls county surpassed the 20,000 mark in July, but unemployment also increased to a full 6 per cent of the county's labor force.

Figures from the Department of Employment released today show July's civilian labor force at 20,080 compared to 19,950 for June. Unemployment was reported to be 1,210 compared to 1,150 for June, or 6.0 per cent of the county's workers.

The Department of Employment report shows unemployment rose as a result of a regular seasonal lag in agricultural processing in July and the fact July is generally the peak month for unemployment.

Compared to 1972, reports show unemployment dropped from a 7.2 per cent in July.

Civilian employment climbed in Twin Falls by 140, largely due to the opening of a new Hirsch Value Center in Twin Falls and the soon to be completed K-Mart shopping center in Twin Falls.

Agricultural processing jobs dropped in potato plants but increased with the Green Giant plant going into full operation in Buhl.

Construction includes the $160,000 Everton Mattress Co. building nearing completion, approval of the Idaho Bank and Trust Co. branch in Twin Falls, and Standard Plumbing Supply Co. construction of an industrial center adjacent to existing facilities on Eastland Drive. The Tupperware plant expansion in Jerome continues, additional condominiums are being built in the Sun Valley area and Gooding has gained some dozen new families with location of the Rehabilitation Services Inc. in the old state Tuberculosis Hospital.

Gardens toured by club

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Countryside Flower Club had a garden tour and luncheon meeting Monday.

The meeting was at the home of Mrs. Victor Nelson and visited the gardens of Mrs. M. H. Kloefer, Mrs. Glen Thietten, Mrs. Pete Sande, Mrs. John Platt and Mrs. Russell Miller.

The next meeting will be Oct. 16 at the home of Mrs. Sande with roll call "Questions and Answers." Mrs. S. W. Smith will report on fall bulbs. Mrs. Keith Fullmer will present a program on chrysanthemums.

3 arraigned in stolen goods case

BURLEY. — Three persons including an escapee from the Idaho State Penitentiary, were arraigned Tuesday in Magistrate Court on charges of transporting stolen goods across state lines and receiving stolen property.

No trial dates have been set for Dennis O. Clark, 28; Earl Bedwell, 42, alias Edward Robbins, and Wanda June Sutton, 29, Salt Lake City. All three are in custody in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Clark, who appeared before Judge LeRoy Blacker was apprehended following a short chase by Burley Police Officer Terry Douglas Saturday. Clark, who escaped from the penitentiary Aug. 25, was serving three-life sentences, commuted to 18 years, for burglary and "persistent violations."

He is being held in the new Minidoka city-county jail. Officers said Clark had escaped from several jails in the last seven years, including the Cassia County Jail, the Minidoka county jail and the Idaho State Penitentiary on one prior occasion. Clark's bond was set at $5,000.

each for three charges — escape from the state penitentiary, bring stolen property into the state and a warrant for burglary from Logan, Utah.

Both Bedwell and Sutton are charged with bringing stolen property into the state. They were arraigned by Magistrate Gleason Anderson.

Still to be arraigned is Charles Davidson, 29, East 16th, Burley, who also was apprehended Saturday afternoon for receipt of stolen property. He was released on $2,500 bond.

The series of events leading to the apprehension of the four persons began about 10:15 a.m. Saturday when the police department received a report from a citizen of several suspicious individuals. Through a check with the National Crime Information Center, the car in which the group was travelling was found to be stolen, from Salt Lake County, Utah. A second call from the citizens tipped the police off that the three had transferred to a vehicle with an Idaho license plate.

MR. AND MRS. BRIAN K. LAMB

Miss Richey, Lamb exchange promises

TWIN FALLS — Margaret Ellen Richey and Brian K. Lamb were married in evening rites Sept. 2 at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Richey, Coeur d'Alene. Lamb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Lamb, Twin Falls.

The double ring ceremony and Nuptial Mass were celebrated by Rev. Albert Allen before an altar setting of large white potted chrysanthemums tied with blue satin bows and arrangements of red gladioli, white Fuji chrysanthemums and greenery. The pews were marked with white satin ribbon bows.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floor-length traditional wedding gown of white delustered satin. The bodice featured a sweetheart neckline inset with lace and accented with tiny seed pearls which also marked the lace insets of the long pointed sleeves. The long A-line skirt was trimmed with applique lace medallions. A matching cathedral train was fastened with a bow at the back of the empire waistline.

Her veil of double silk illusion was held by a Juliet cap of lace and fell the full length of the train.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and white Fuji Chrysanthemums centered with red rosebuds and tied with white satin streamers.

Janice Richey, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Catherine Richey, sister of the bride, and Robin Lamb, sister of the bridegroom.

Jerry Robinson, Centerville, Utah, was best man. Ushers were Paul Richey, Coeur d'Alene, brother of the bride, and Bill Allen, Buhl.

Mary Lou Hagerman, Wendell, played wedding music and accompanied Bill Buckendorf, Buhl, soloist.

The 50th Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richey, Meridian, grandparents of the bride, and the Sixth Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Heard, Eugene, Ore., sister of the bridegroom, were mentioned during the ceremony.

The couple was honored at a reception immediately after the ceremony, under the direction of Mrs. Judy Sidwell and the women of the church.

The lace covered bride's table was centered with a three-tiered white wedding cake topped with the traditional miniature bridal couple. A lighted blue fountain was at the base of the cake. The cake was decorated with cupids, rosebuds and lattice work and was flanked with white wrought iron candelabra holding white tapers.

Mrs. Lloyd Harrison, Boise, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Lynn Heard, sister of the BUHL — Cynthia Louise Wagner and John David Muirhead were married in an evening ceremony Aug. 31 at St. Benedict's Priory, Twin Falls.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Malachy McNell before an altar of white gladioli, pompon chrysanthemums and red roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Wagner and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Muirhead, all Buhl.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long gown of cluny lace accented with satin ribbon. Ruffled lace outlined the V-neckline and edged the wrists of the long fitted sleeves.

Her floor-length veil was trimmed with matching lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of red roses, white stephanotis and baby's breath.

Teresa Wagner was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Diane Rex. Amy Wagner was flower girl. She carried a basket of red and white carnations with the rings attached. All are sisters of the bride.

Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richey, Meridian, grandparents of the bride. Special guests attended from Meridian, Bozeman, Mont., Eugene, Ore., Pocatello, Strasbourg, France, and Denver, Colo.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple resides in Pasadena, Calif., where the bridegroom will begin work for his doctorate in chemistry at California Institute of Technology.

Special book given to Buhl library

BUHL — The book, "Children and Mental Health Center," has been presented to the Buhl Public Library by Mrs. Leah Hill on behalf of the Twin Falls County Mental Health Association.

The book is the 10th in a series of Joint Information Service field studies of mental health programs focusing on the efforts of federally assisted mental health centers to meet the needs of children and adolescents.

Based on visits by the authors, Raymond M. Glassco, Michael E. Flahman and Meyer Sonis, with collaboration of Loretta Cass, Pearl Shalit, Michael Freeland and David Kallen, to eight outstanding programs, the volume also incorporates the findings of a questionnaire survey to all federally supported community mental health centers.

It provides a full but concise history of treatment efforts for young people in this county and sets forth a hypothetical comprehensive program that is broader than any single program presently operating in the United States.

MRS. LEAH HILL, member of the Twin Falls County Mental Health Association, presents the book, "Children and Mental Health Centers," to Mrs. Al Kaveloff, Buhl Public Librarian, on behalf of the association.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Elmer and I were happily married for two years when we had a baby. All of a sudden Elmer up and left me and the baby for another woman. She had four kids. Elmer wanted her but not her kids, so she gave them to her sister.

I was heartbroken at first, then I met a guy named Danny who treated me wonderfully. I let him move in with me because I'm afraid to sleep alone and that's the truth. Meanwhile, I still loved Elmer. When Elmer heard about me and Danny he left his girl friend who he got pregnant in the meantime, and he begged me to take him back.

Now Danny is living with me, and Elmer is sleeping in the basement. I'm expecting Danny's baby, but I'm still married to Elmer. Elmer's girl friend just had a baby which she named Elmer. (How is that for nerve?)

Danny wants to marry me, but Elmer won't give me a divorce. I love Elmer, but I also love Danny, and I sure wish you would help me figure some way out of this mess.

Idaho Humane Societies meet scheduled Sept. 29 in TF

TWIN FALLS — Plans for the first meeting of the Idaho Federation of Humane Societies in Twin Falls Sept. 29 were announced today.

Bobbi Glasman, state president, said the meeting should attract delegates from the eight Humane Societies in Idaho. It will be held in the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Glasman said sessions begin at 9 a.m. with a registration and get acquainted period. Following a luncheon for regional and national officials of the U. S. Humane Society, a meeting will be held for discussion of current problems facing Humane Societies in Idaho and on a national basis.

A banquet will be held Saturday night with all board members and their husbands and wives asked to attend.

In a meeting Tuesday night, Twin Falls Humane Society board members discussed the issue of injury and general treatment of rodeo stock with Ronald Zebell, member of the Rodeo Cowboy Assn. The Humane Society of the United States has charged rodeos represent mistreatment of animals for entertainment purposes.

Zebell said rodeo animals especially in such states as Idaho are better treated than average ranch animals and are highly valued by their owners.

Rodeo producers cannot afford to have their stock injured or killed and while there are rare accidents, he said, they are no more frequent than might occur in the line of regular ranch work.

Zebell said most of the charges against rodeos are unfounded and can be disputed by an authentic analysis of the situation.

The board approved the appointment of Terrill Castaneda as Humane Society Educational chairman.

She will work with school officials from kindergarten to high school and with students discuss Humane Society programs and the proper care and treatment of animals as well as problems facing communities from over population of pets, abandonment, loss and nonlicensing of pets.

Triangle victim

DEAR MESSED: Danny appears to be much better husband material than Elmer, altho Elmer is still your legal husband. Only you can decide which one you want. Get Danny out of your bedroom and get Elmer out of your basement while you try to think with a clear mind. If you want to divorce Elmer you won't have any trouble finding grounds.

DEAR ABBY: The plight of Miss "Stuck," who was conned out of $1,000 (no receipt) by a boyfriend, and was advised by three attorneys not to sue for the debt, prompts me to write this.

The fact that three (or 300) attorneys declined to handle her case doesn't matter. She probably didn't consult a "collection attorney," which is what she should have done.

I suggest she contact her County Bar Association, which would refer her to an attorney specializing in collections. If she lets the matter drop, she is giving up the following excellent chances of recovery:

1. Statistics prove that about one-fifth of debtors pay up when they receive a letter from an attorney.

2. About 50 per cent or more pay when they are served with a summons.

3. The few "hard nuts" who insist upon trying the case, must pay an attorney to interpose an answer, and even these die-hard-suits-in-court quite frequently.

4. Even if the matter has to be tried, she can rely upon the wisdom of the judge, or the common sense of the jury, who would realize that our innocent victim wouldn't invent this entire story, and go thru the legal process.

Moreover, this lady has nothing to lose as most attorneys would handle such a matter on a contingency basis. I hope this lady collects with interest, court costs, and disbursements.

H.G., COUNSELOR-AT-LAW

DEAR H.G.: Thanks. Your solution was far better than mine.

DEAR ABBY: "Wondering in Topeka" blasted male doctors who required breast and pelvic examinations before prescribing birth control pills. She said the women doctors she contacted didn't require such examinations, and concluded that the male doctors were either looking for a cheap thrill or an examination fee.

Thanks for letting her know that such examinations are essential to determine whether that patient should use "the Pill" or not. It also gives the doctor an opportunity to check for cancer of the breast and cervix, which still claims the lives of too many women because they didn't discover it in time.

Physicians who will prescribe "the Pill" without an examination are careless, and show a distressing lack of concern for their patients. By the way, I am a...

ruff a diamond. Therefore East played his 10 under dummy's jack. Things worked out just as East had hoped. West did win the first trump trick, did lead a spade in response to the suit preference signal and did ruff the second diamond. This hand illustrates something we have pointed out in the last couple of articles. It is easy to recognize a suit preference signal when the signal is given with a high card to call for a lead of the higher off suit. It is downright difficult to be sure that a low card calls for the play of a low side suit. (NEWSPAPER ENTHUSIAST ASSN.)

North should probably have passed when his partner bid three no-trump. If he had, South would have made exactly three no-trump against a spade opening and either five or six no-trump against any other lead depending on whether or not East got to cash his ace of spades.

West opened his singleton diamond. East didn't have much hope of defeating five clubs but he did note one chance: If West held ace and another club and would lead a spade then West would get to

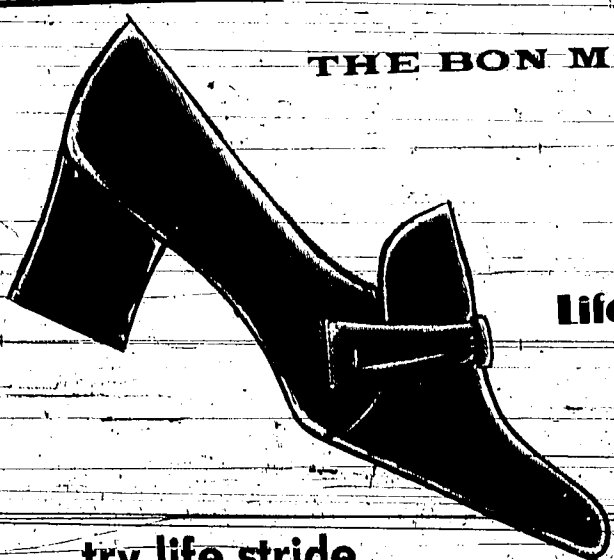

You, South, hold: ♠ Q 8 6 4 2 ♥ 2 ♠ A 4 ♠ A K J 9 7 What do you do now? A spade ace is a good suit. You can bid five no-trump as the "grand slam force." Partner is supposed to bid seven spades if he holds two of the three top honors. Without this bid at your disposal go into Blackwood.

Minidoka tax levels will rise

RUPERT—Most Minidoka County residents will be paying lower taxes this year because of lower levies despite a .3 per cent increase in the assessment ratio.

Levies went down in every city but Acquila. They decreased also in the school district, the county and the cemetery district.

The highway district remained the same as did the fair board and library, while the hospital declined slightly.

Rupert residents for example will be paying $180.92 for each $10,000 of real property compared to $194.01 for each $10,000 of real property last year.

County taxes also declined. For each $10,000 of real property, county residents will be paying $46.94 this year for county taxes alone compared to $53.12 for each $10,000 of real property last year.

Taxes for cities alone based on $10,000 of real property are, Rupert $38.79 this year compared to $38.40 last year; Heyburn $33.58 this year compared to $37.60 last year; Paul $53.52 this year compared to $48.00 last year; Acquila $18.30 this year compared to $15.74 last year; and Minidoka $21.52 this year compared to $22.70 last year.

Residents of School District No. 331 will be paying $63.81 for each $10,000 of real property, while last year they paid $71.26 for each $10,000 of real property.

SV firm takes land use poll

TWIN FALLS—Sun Valley research firm is now conducting a statewide opinion survey on land use for the Idaho Planning and Community Affairs Agency.

Operating on an $18,000 grant from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, poll-takers from Environment West Research and Planning, Inc., Sun Valley, are now canvassing local officials, businessmen, farmers, cattlemen and wage earners to learn how they feel about land use planning in Idaho.

According to Dick Meyer, owner of Environment West, the survey results will give state planning officials some hard data about land use opinions on which to base future land use planning.

Meyer said the survey results will be compiled by Oct. 15.

Among the questions on the survey:

- In your opinion what is the major force causing change in the use of land today?
- In your opinion are the strongest forces causing change in the use of land today: from influences within the State? from influences outside the State? equally?
- Is there such a thing as undesirable growth?
- Do you feel subdivision of agricultural lands should be limited?
- Do you agree or disagree that growth should be controlled by any of the following: through local State and Federal tax pressures? through local building and zoning codes? through State legislation? through Federal legislation? through purchasing of land by government? through purchasing of development rights by government?

Economist warns of price decline

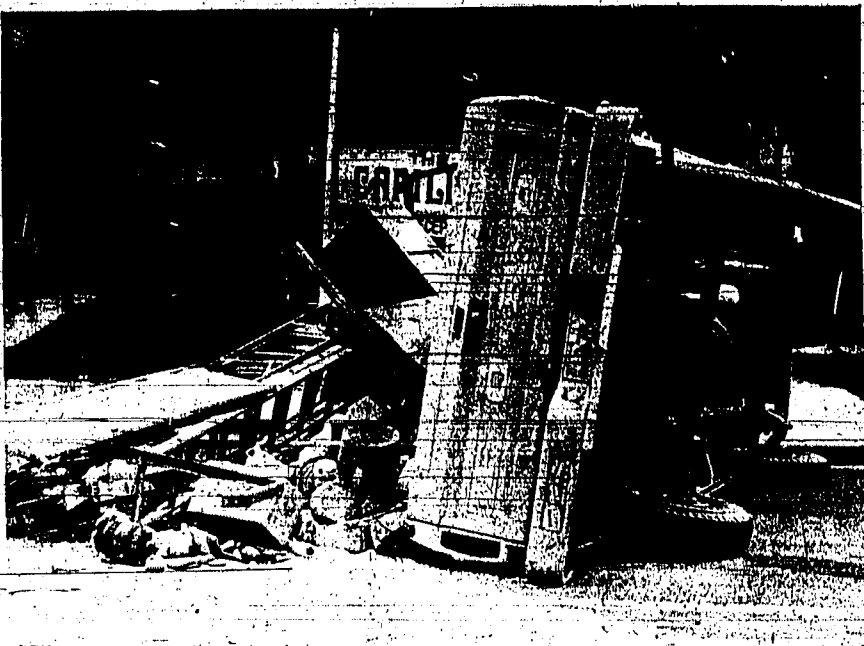

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—A University of Idaho Extension economist warned today that although wheat prices are currently at record high levels, farmers need to consider the likelihood of a price decline next year.

Robert L. Sargent cautioned Pacific Northwest farmers not to base their winter wheat planting on the expectation of a 5 per bushel market price next year.

"A continuation of strong demand for wheat hinges on the United States maintaining exports near the record levels of 1972," he said.

Sargent said he does not share the optimism of some other economists who expect U.S. wheat exports to continue at a rapid rate.

"It appears extremely doubtful that the 1972 level of U.S. wheat exports to Russia will be maintained in the future," he said. "A realistic sustainable level would be in the area of 100-150 million bushels per year—far below the 400 million bushels the U.S. sold to Russia in 1972."

Lincoln meet set

SHOSHONE—Lincoln County Development Corp. will elect officers at 8 p.m. Sept. 27 at the courtroom of the courthouse.

Robert Miller, president, said there will be business speculators present along with representatives from the Small Business Administration to discuss possible opening of new businesses in the community.

TF theft probed

TWIN FALLS—Mrs. Rulon Christensen, Twin Falls, told city police someone entered her family's home at 531 Sunrise Blvd. N., sometime between Aug. 12 and Aug. 30 and took $370 worth of articles.

She said missing items included a ladies watch with diamond trim, valued at $330; an electric hair clipper and two lawn chairs.

Investigation is continuing.

70 acres blackened

TWIN FALLS—Fire blackened about 70 acres in the Indian Springs area south of Kimberly and Hansen Wednesday afternoon before it was controlled by Bureau of Land Management crews.

The fire, man caused, was reported at 2:30 p.m. by the U. S. Forest Service and a Rogerson Guard Station crew was sent to the scene until BLM crews out of Burley could be dispatched.

Fire control officers in Burley said the fire was under control by 4:25 p.m. and burned entirely on BLM land, mostly in brush and dry grass. Four tankers and 18 men fought the fire.

Decision slated

SHOSHONE—The Idaho Department of Water Administration will decide in two weeks whether or not the City of Shoshone may drill three surface water drainage wells.

A hearing that lasted three and one-half hours was held Tuesday at the Lincoln County courthouse, Shoshone, after the City Council in Shoshone had made application for the wells.

The application had been disapproved by the Department of Environmental and Community Services.

Those testifying for the city claimed use of the wells to drain city streets would not cause contamination or deterioration of water quality below the standards of the Department of Environmental and Community Services.

Chief hearing officer Keith Higginson, Director of the Idaho Department of Water Administration, requested the two-week period to study the matter before rendering a decision.

The City may appeal that decision to the fifth district court.

Bridge project now under way

SHOSHONE—One new project is being carried out this month by the State Highway Department District office, Shoshone.

This is installation of a 20 feet by 14 feet steel pipe bridge on the Balanced Rock-Kimberly Road.

Howard Johnson, Shoshone district engineer, said the low bid of Miller Construction Co., Boise, was accepted at $79,902.50.

On Oct. 23 a bid will be let for another project, construction of three 26 foot and one 30 foot concrete bridges and approaches on U. S. 93, in the Sawtooth Valley, 20 miles south of Stanley.

In the Rupert-Burley area work is progressing on the roadway of Interchange 80N, the Idaho-Sweetzer and Cottrell-Idaho road.

Base aggregate is being crushed and construction of drainage structures being done. Construction of the plant mix pavement between Idaho and Sweetzer has been temporarily suspended, but it is anticipated that operations will resume this week to complete the pavement on this 16.829 mile portion of the interstate.

Major traffic interferences can be expected during paving operations, Johnson said.

Work on the Meridian Road will commence this week, also, Johnson said, and construction has commenced on a 7.448 mile section of I-80N, Junction I-15W Cottrell.

Youth program review mixed

The Summer Youth Program, according to the report authorized by Lynda Clark, a former staff member of the Human Resources Development Council (HRDC) and now a University of Idaho student, is an employment program for 14-22 year old youths, with the inclusion of veterans up to age 29.

The program involved four separate state agencies, the Department of Employment, the Department of Education, the Department of Special Services and the HRDC. Its two chief goals include:

- Place a maximum number of young people in summer jobs with available funds, at an hourly wage of $1.82;
- Provide the enrollees in the program with "meaningful jobs," assignments that would match the interest of the youths and hopefully provide a beginning of a career for him.

The report says that by the middle of the program, 115 persons, all of them disadvantaged, and one a veteran, had been involved. That was in contrast to a hoped-for breakdown of about 50 per cent disadvantaged youths, about nine per cent veterans and about 34 per cent other youth. The report says veterans were generally not interested in the program because of the wages and temporary nature of the jobs.

It also claims "Area 4" administrative personnel "interpreted the guidelines to mean strict adherence to the disadvantaged criteria."

In the Magic Valley eight county area, the report says 33 agencies participated in the program by permitting the non-school youths to work, while in another part of the program the youths placed by the Department of Education worked for five public agencies in addition to the school districts.

The Department of Education was to select youths who would be in public junior and senior high schools for the program, while the Department of Employment was responsible for selecting and placing the others.

Cassia taxes up despite low levies

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer

BURLEY—Although tax levies in most categories in Cassia County decreased this year, most residents will be paying higher taxes.

The increases stem mainly from a big jump in school district levies and smaller increases in county and highway district levies over last year.

A resident in the city of Burley, for example, will be paying $191.24 for each $10,000 of real property this year, while last year he paid only $184.12 per $10,000 of real property.

This figure includes county, city, highway district, school district and other levies paid by Burley residents.

County residents will be paying $27.06 in county levies for each $10,000 of real property this year compared to $25.14 last year. In School District 151 taxes per $10,000 of real property will be $69.77. Last year they were $59.69. This reflects the greatest tax increase this year.

Burley Highway district taxes rose to $15.66 per $10,000 of real property from $13.23 last year. Increases will also be felt in the Raft River and Oakley Highway districts while the Albion and Murtaugh Highway districts will see a decrease in taxes.

City taxes will decrease in every city in the county except Albion this year, in spite of the overall tax increase.

City taxes alone for each city based on $10,000 of real property are:

- Albion: $8.51 this year, compared to $5.29 last year.
- Burley: $51.88 this year, compared to $56.89 last year.
- Declo: $32.22 this year, compared to $34.99 last year.
- Malta: $23.41 this year, compared to $32.83 last year.
- Oakley: $32.07 this year, compared to $35.28 last year.

Tax levies in each of the cemetery and fire protection districts went down this year, as did those for the Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority.

Wrong figures

TWIN FALLS—The College of Southern Idaho inaccurately reported 1972 academic enrollment figures Thursday, according to Jerry Meyerhoeffer, CSI director of admissions.

Enrollment in academic courses in the fall of 1972 was 1,477, not 1,440 as was reported. Meyerhoeffer explained that the 1,440 was the enrollment for fall 1971.

Correspondingly CSI's total academic enrollment dropped 187 during the past year, not by 150 as reported. Also, total college enrollment rose to 3,034 from 3,023, not from 2,980.

BLM sponsored tour scheduled

BURLEY—Sixth graders of schools in Cassia and Minidoka Counties will participate in the annual conservation tour beginning Monday.

The tour is sponsored by the Bureau of Land Management district office in Burley and the school districts of the two counties. Through the annual program which covers a four-day period, each sixth grade class is taken "on the mountain" for a hands-on look at environment including watersheds, wildlife, soil and plant factors.

This year's tour extends Monday through Thursday with Friday held open as an extra day in case of bad weather. The tour will be on the demonstration site at Howell Canyon, about three miles below the Pomerelle Ski Area. Eight stations at the site will be visited with an agency representative to explain the functions of each.

Participating will be Gerald Hurst and Harold Short, environmental quality; Jim Reed, Vernon Peugh, Morris Gunnell and Scott Neilson, fire control; Ivan Thornton, Gary Fullmer, Kurt Kotter, plant communities; J. Wayne Cole, Larry King, soils; Darrell Hintz and Keith Tweedle, forestry; John Hill, Stu Murrell, wildlife; Brad Bandy and Art Selin, recreation, Gary Post and Terry Guiley, watershed.

Classes will travel to the site by bus and will have a half-hour lunch break during the day long program.

2 MV towns get $82,000 grants

RUPERT—Although the checks have not yet arrived, Environmental Protection Agency grants totaling $82,000 have been approved for the cities of Heyburn and Rupert.

In July, the Rupert City Council authorized the Pocatello engineering firm of Hamilton and Voeller to begin an infiltration analysis study of the city's sewer system required by the EPA before grants for a new sewer system would be approved.

A $71,250 grant was awarded to the city for the analysis, which has been underway for nearly a month.

A total of $1,070 was granted to the city of Heyburn for an engineering study by Preston engineer Wendell Smith of a new non-overflow lagoon for the city.

Lagoon studies have been conducted for about two years by the city, according to the city office, and the non-overflow lagoon is only one of the methods under consideration.

The grant was applied for about six weeks ago.

Flying saucers real, according to UFO 'expert'

Friedman said he had several goals in lecturing on UFOs. One, he said, was to "lift the Laughter Curtain" of unbelief. Another — "to make people aware that we are all earthlings from an outsider's point of view . . . and a major hope for peace in the future is that we stop thinking of ourselves as Americans, Russians, Caucasians, Orientals . . . (and realize we are) all from the same little planet."

While Friedman has interviewed hundreds of people reporting UFO sightings and studied volumes upon volumes of material on the subject, he has yet to see a flying saucer. "But I spent 14 years tracing neutrons and gamma rays, and I've never seen one of them either and I certainly think they're real," he said.

Friedman said extraterrestrial vehicles fall into two classes, saucer shaped or cigar shaped.

Reports of contacts with aliens — Friedman calls them humanoid — from all over the world establish a consistent picture of a being with two arms, two legs and a head about four to four and a half feet tall with grayish flesh tones — "no accent on green," Friedman said.

He said spaceship descriptions are consistent "with an electro-magnetic propulsion system similar to the electro-magnetic submarine tested several years ago in California."

In this system, Friedman said, electronic and magnetic fields can be used with an electricity conducting fluid — seawater in the case of the submarine, ionized air in the case of spaceships — to produce propulsion, sudden turns, absence of noise, maneuverability and the glow usually associated with UFOs.

Friedman said there are hundreds of reasons UFOs may come to earth. "The UFOs" certainly have observed our military installations and space installations . . . It appears they are as casual about coming here as people are in flying from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City."

Friedman said he was not surprised that humanoids avoid contact with anything.

"I think anybody coming here and observing would immediately decide that this was a primitive civilization engaged in tribal warfare. There is also the question of whom do you talk to? Talk to the Air Force and you'll never get home."

He said there is no single world leader with whom to communicate. "Nixon, Mao Tse-tung, Brezhnev deceive themselves alternately that they are the leaders, but have really isn't a leader for all the people of Earth."

Despite stories to the contrary, Friedman said he knows of no conclusive findings of parts or pieces from a foreign spaceship. He advocates building a standardized and uniform series of spotting stations worldwide to prove conclusively the existence of "extraterrestrial craft."

"To have simultaneous readings on instruments . . . (to show) spectrum and magnetic field variations . . . where you really record the heck out of the payload — that would be lovely!"

Friedman said he would very much like to meet a humanoid. "If somebody said 'Stan, you want to come along on a trip,' I'd say, 'yes.'"

He said he thinks flying saucers are so frequent that Earth — "is just a tourist stop."

Philadelphia quartet to play in TF on Oct. 4

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Symphony orchestra, together with the Idaho Commission on the Arts and Humanities, will present the Philadelphia String Quartet in concert Oct. 4 at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium at the College of Southern Idaho.

These artists, all of whom have been first desk players with the Philadelphia Orchestra, comprise the quartet-in-residence at the University of Washington in Seattle. It is one of the most exciting groups on the international music scene, according to Del Slaughter, Magic Valley Symphony conductor.

Quartet members are Personnel: Veda Reynolds, violin; Irwin Eisenberg, violin; Alan Iglitzin, viola; Charles Brennan, cello. The first portion of the program will consist of selected movements of quartets from Classical, Renaissance and Contemporary Periods. Following this will be the Dvorak Quartet in F Major, Opus 96, "American," in four movements: Allegro ma non troppo, Lento, Molto vivace, Vivace ma non troppo. This quartet is a pioneer in contemporary music and has over 80 first performances to its credit. It commissions one new American work each year.

Notre Dame, Texas grid teams debut

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

The last two of the nation's glamor teams — Texas and Notre Dame — finally get around to playing their first college football game of the season this weekend, and if we are to believe the pre-season reports, both clubs should get off to a rousing start.

NL owners hold vote on moving on Padres

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National League Wednesday failed to act on a proposal to transfer the San Diego Padres to Washington, D.C.

The National League recessed and will hold another meeting at the call of the president, President Chub Feeney announced. "Our members wanted more time to think about the situation and decided not to take a vote today."

The league meeting, which lasted five hours, was called only to discuss and, perhaps, act on a bid from Joseph Danzansky and two associates of $12 million to get the San Diego franchise and move it to the nation's capital.

The league first heard a presentation Wednesday from the current Padres' owner, C. Arnold Smith, who explained his reasons for wanting to sell, and also from the Danzansky group explaining the reasons they wished to buy the team and move it.

Duck, goose outlook hurt by poor hatch

By STU MURRELL
Regional Conservation Educator

Duck season will start on October 6 in southern Idaho with a bag limit of six ducks per day and 12 in possession after the first day in the Columbia Basin Mallard counties.

This is a reduction of one bird from the daily bag from 1972. One mallard is allowed in the quail bag. Columbia Basin Mallard counties will have a season running until January 13 and the remaining counties to January 6.

The fall forecast calls for an estimated 12 per cent reduction in the number of ducks. In ways other than the Pacific

Aaron decides on day off

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Henry Aaron, only three homers short of Babe Ruth's career record of 714, decided to sit out Wednesday night's game between the Atlanta Braves and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"You can only do just so much with the old body," said the 39-year-old Braves slugger. "I play as many games as possible, but I don't want to push myself. We played last night in Atlanta and I don't like to play again in the first game of a road trip."

He was available, however, for possible use as a pinch hitter, and said he expects to play in the second game of the series with the Dodgers Thursday night.

Tennis angel stops support

LONDON (UPI) — The Bristol-based tobacco company, W.D. and H.O. Wills, said today they were pulling out of tennis sponsorship.

Wills, which has poured an estimated $625,000 into tennis since sponsoring the world's first open tennis event in 1968, told the Lawn Tennis Association they are terminating their backing of the sport.

James Pearson, manager of Wills special events unit, said: "We are sick and tired of the way the game is being managed or mismanaged. I am sure our money can be better spent elsewhere — and believe me we are not the only sponsors beginning to think along these lines."

Riggs made 2 1/2-1 favorite over King

HOUSTON (UPI) — On the eve of the Billie Jean King-Bobby Riggs tennis circus, Mr. King lost to Mr. Riggs, and Las Vegas oddsmaker Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder installed Bobby as a 2 1/2 to 1 favorite for the "Battle of the Sexes."

Billie Jean said she could not be more pleased about that prediction for her 8 p.m. EDT nationally televised best-of-five set clash with Riggs.

"I think the main reason I'm the underdog is that Bobby beat Margaret Court so badly," said the 29-year-old women's libber as she prepared to face the 55-year-old motor-mouthed, junkshot artist in the $100,000 winner-take-all test.

"I'm always the heavy. For once I'm the underdog and I love it," said Billie Jean, smiling after her husband Larry "lost" a "warm up match" to Riggs.

"We've needed this kind of show business in tennis for a long time," Billie Jean said. "I have had people tell me Rod Laver thinks this is nothing but a circus and he would not be involved in this sort of thing. Well I know Rod and I know that if there was $100,000 involved he would be here."

Mrs. King, dressed in a mint green warmup suit, and Bobby, clad in a pair of white shorts and a T-shirt with his picture on it, met the press Wednesday for the first time before having at each other Thursday night.

Jerry Perenchio, the match promoter who doubles as Jiggs' business partner, forecast a crowd of between 35,000 to 40,000 and said no matter who wins, both players will get so much from the television and film rights that they will be shoved into a higher tax bracket.

Riggs, other than talking, swallowed 415 vitamin pills at a Wednesday brunch, pumping the nutrient equivalent of 2,000 fresh oranges, two pounds of liver, four pounds of steak and two gallons of milk into his system, he claimed.

Neither Riggs nor Billie Jean have tried to describe the match as anything other than a show-business promotion, but both feel there is nothing wrong with that.

"We are helping women's tennis," said Billie Jean. "But at the same time Bobby is making money off this. We are involved in a kind of marriage."

Chamberlain mulls offers to coach and play in ABA

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Wilt Chamberlain was reported ready to jump from the Lakers of the National Basketball Association to the Conquistadors of the rival American Basketball Association Wednesday as a player-coach for $500,000 a year.

Chamberlain, who owns a major share of the NBA record book, acknowledged Tuesday that he is "negotiating with the Conquistadors as possibly being a player and coach but that's as much as I can say."

However, ABA Commissioner Mike Storen was reported flying from Louisville to Los Angeles Wednesday for a meeting with Chamberlain's attorney, Seymour Goldberg, and Leonard Bloom, owner of the San Diego Conquistadors.

A news conference was tentatively scheduled to be held in San Diego Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

Chamberlain meantime, was scheduled to fly to New York where he will conduct a news conference of his own Thursday to plug his autobiography.

Rumors that the 7-1 Chamberlain was ready to leave the Lakers erupted again Monday when the Lakers announced they had acquired center Elmore Smith from the Buffalo Braves.

In an interview Tuesday, Chamberlain admitted the Lakers tried to contact him before they made the Smith trade but he wasn't home. Nevertheless, he wasn't pleased about the acquisition.

"They want me to believe that I'm to work with Elmore Smith for a year or two," he said. "I think that's pretty far-fetched."

Headed Conquistadors owner Bloom "is a good friend of mine. I'm glad someone still recognizes I can play basketball."

Chamberlain's contract with the Lakers has expired but it contains the usual reserve option clause binding him to the club for another season.

Lakers General Manager Pete Newell said, "We hope he's back with this year and as far as we know, he will play for us. If he plays basketball anywhere, he will play for the Lakers."

Meanwhile, Chamberlain's attorney, Goldberg, indicated the 14-year NBA veteran has given "serious consideration" to retiring from basketball.

"He has three possibilities," Goldberg said.

"He can stay with the Lakers, he can retire from basketball, which is under serious consideration, or he can accept one of the offers he has from other teams."

"The options are equally open to him," Goldberg said, "but the decision will be his."

U.S. Ryder cup team favored but cautious as matches open

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (UPI)—The United States, undefeated for 16 years, was an odds-on favorite to maintain its golfing supremacy over Britain in the 26th biennial Ryder Cup match which started today.

But non-playing captain Jack Burke has warned his 12-man squad of the danger of being too complacent, reminding them that "the best players do not underestimate anybody."

Burke's sentiments were echoed by Jack Nicklaus, record winner of 14 major titles. Nicklaus, remembering how he naived with Tony Jacklin in the final singles of the memorable U.S.-Britain clash in 1969 which ended in a 16-16 tie, said Wednesday: "The match is certainly no foregone conclusion."

The 33-year-old Golden Bear added: "Britain has a home advantage, only five players on our team have had any experience on this course. We expect it to be tough."

Nicklaus, who called his new course in Columbus, Ohio, "Muirfield" as a fond reminder of these Scottish links where he won the British Open for the first time in 1966, said he was satisfied with his own form during practice.

"Everything seems to be in fine shape," he said, "and the course is playing really well."

Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, who team up in the fourth foursome against Britain's Maurice Bembridge and Eddie Pollard, both showed top form in a practice four-ball session with Lee Trevino and Billy Casper Wednesday.

Palmer was particularly impressive, driving with great power and putting with a sure touch.

Trevino and Casper, who play in the opening match, should get the Americans off to a flying start against Brian Barnes and Bernard Gallacher, but British Open champion Tom Weiskopf and J.C. Snead could be hard-pressed by the in-form Christy O'Connor and Neil Coles.

O'Connor, a 48-year-old Irishman who will be making a record tenth appearance in the competition, destroyed the 6,917-yard Muirfield course in practice two days.

Mays may announce retirement today

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's likely to become official for Willie Mays Thursday.

The New York Mets announced Wednesday night that a press conference will be held at Shea Stadium at 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

It's expected that Mays, who's in the 23rd year of his brilliant career at age 42, will officially announce his retirement as an active player.

The Mets already have scheduled a Willie Mays appreciation night for next Tuesday night and Mays' official retirement announcement has been expected for several days.

Mays, who first came up to the majors in 1951 with the New York Giants, moved with the Giants to San Francisco in 1958 but then was traded back to New York to the Mets on May 11, 1972, for an obscure pitcher named Charlie Williams and cash.

Mays, who was 42 on May 6, has been a part-time player for the Mets. He batted only 244 times last year and has come to the plate only 209 times this season with a .211 average.

Mays, a cinch Hall of Famer, took a .301 lifetime average into this season. He's the third leading home run hitter of all time with 660 homers including six this season. Only Babe Ruth and Henry Aaron have more.

He was twice named the National League's Most Valuable Player and led the league in homers four times.

Jones' five-RBI homers carry Mets by Bucs, closer to lead

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clean Jones walloped a two-run homer in the second inning and a three-run homer in the eighth and the New York Mets made several critical defensive plays to defeat the division leading Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3 Wednesday night to further tighten the tangled National League East pennant race.

New York moved into a third place deadlock with St. Louis, 1 1/2 games behind the Pirates, Montreal, which also lost Wednesday, remained a game back of Pittsburgh.

Jones uncorked a prodigious 475-foot blast to leftfield after John Milner opened the second with a single. In the eighth, Jones' seventh homer of the year cleared the 410-foot mark in centerfield, driving in Rusty Staub and Miltjer. Jones hadn't hit a homer at Shea Stadium since he belted two on Opening Day.

Brewers drop Cleveland 7-4

CLEVELAND (UPI)—George Scott drove in four runs Wednesday with a single and his 21st homer to lead the Milwaukee Brewers to a 7-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Harper, Boston drop Yanks 3-1

BOSTON (UPI)—Tommy Harper hit two doubles, stole two bases and scored two runs Wednesday night to back the four-hit pitching of Luis Tiant as the Boston Red Sox defeated the New York Yankees 3-1.

Blue and A's blank Twins

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Vida Blue tossed a three-hit shutout in winning his 10th game Wednesday night as the Oakland A's defeated the Minnesota Twins, 3-0.

Tigers' Miller sets save mark

DETROIT (UPI)—John Miller tied the major league record with his 37th save this season and possibly his easiest, preserving a 10-1 victory for the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night against the Baltimore Orioles.

Houston and Padres split

HOUSTON (UPI)—Fred Kendall and Ivan Murrell punched twin-run doubles to lead the San Diego Padres to a 6-4 victory over Houston Wednesday night after Houston won the opener, 8-5, with the help of Cliff Johnson's two-run double.

Chicago edges Royals in 12th

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Buddy Bradford drilled a tie-breaking single in the 12th inning Wednesday night, scoring Carlos May and lifting the Chicago White Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Reds cut magle number to five

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Fred Norman, a mid-season acquisition, won his 11th game for Cincinnati on a two-hitter Wednesday night as the Reds reduced their NL West title clinching magle number to five with a 5-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The Reds touched starter Tom Bradley for six hits and four of their runs, chasing him in the fourth and sending him to his 12th loss in 29 decisions.

Dodgers defeat Braves in 8th

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ron Cey's bases-loaded single drove in two runs to clinch a four-run rally in the eighth inning Wednesday night that gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 4-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Braves' pitcher Phil Niekro gave up his first two walks of the game in the eighth and was charged with the loss to make his record 13-9.

Filer-Valley, Jerome-WR feature weekend grid fare

Filer and Valley, a pair of undefeated, meet at Eden while Minico and Twin Falls take their SIC show on the road this weekend during a 15-game high school schedule that spans three days.

Minico leads the thing off Thursday night by playing the Borah Lions at Boise. It's a tough chore. Coach Dee Pankratz said before the season started he believed he had six college prospects at tackle along, adding "for the first time in a long time, we'll be able to get physical" against the other teams.

Minico's defense by now has to be considered pretty solid but offensively the Spartans are a little worried about getting some points for all those yards. They picked up 250 against Highland but only scored seven points. Against Burley they had 289 and 13 points.

"We're killing ourselves with mental mistakes in scoring situations," assistant Coach John Astorquia said after two games.

With Borah's defensive line going about 235 pounds in average this year, the scoring situations might be a little fewer than usual and the Spartan staff wants to cash in on all that come along.

Friday night Twin Falls follows Minico into Boise with the Bruins taking on the always strong Capital Eagles.

This will be another matter of man power for Twin Falls as the Bruins have shown in two games that the lack of numbers hurts severely late in the game.

The Bruin game plan has to be ball possession, hoping their good-sized line can sustain some time and ground-consuming drives for points.

Both Mike Allison and Craig Day, injured slightly in last week's win over Idaho Falls, are expected to be available. But leading ground gainer Mel Hardor may be out due to an ankle injury.

Filer and Valley carry six wins between them into Friday night's battle at Eden.

Valley has proven itself a past-master at winning the tight ones, 6-0, 8-0 in overtime and 14-3. Filer also has shown a good defense and the ability to get the scoring play when it has been needed. It is a non-conference thing.

In a key South Central Idaho Conference game Friday afternoon, the Jerome Tigers, the best defensive team hereabouts, run into the Wood River Wolverines who have been showing good offense this season despite running a lot of juniors.

Wood River lost a tough decision at Mountain Home last week and can't afford another loop loss. Jerome is seeking its third straight loop crown and certainly wouldn't like a loss at this stage.

Burley, playing better than pre-season deposters expected, will open its EIC conference at Blackfoot. The Bobcats have played well in dropping Kelly and bowing by five to Minico.

Gooding, getting its first points and victory last week, will try to even its record at 2-2 against Glenns Ferry. The small Pilots again will be giving away a good-sized weight advantage.

Buhl stays in inter-district competition, hosting Shelley, an unknown quantity. The Indians have a 2-0 record, overcoming well over 100 yards in penalties to beat the Huskies at Ervitt last week.

Wendell, off a good pre-season showing, will get into the Little Five Conference by traveling to Shoshone and is expected to have fullback-linoback Matt Bunn back for full service. His absence on offense last week hurt the Trojans in the loss to Filer.

Ramp opens

SHOSHONE -- The ramp on the east side of Magic Reservoir, which has been unusable because of mud, will be open for use Friday, according to Dennis Sechrest, owner of the Magic Valley resort at the site.

He said the extremely low water has caused mud to build up on the ramp, hampering boat landing, but Blaine County highway crews are cleaning it so the ramp will be useable.

Kimberly remains in the geographical-hate series by traveling to Hansen. The Bulldogs have lost squeakers to Murtaugh and Valley and the Hansen game winds the middle-valley squabbling up for them.

Hansen caught one of the biggest offensive booms in recent years, hitting Ruff River with 30 points in about 10 minutes. Defensively, the Huskies have been sticking well for their size.

Castleford, with a pair of losses in pre-season, will be at Oakley Friday afternoon where Coach Neal Wyatt felt his charges played one of the best games in three years and still lost last week. Coach Ralph Hatch says a little light is starting to shine at the end of the tunnel for his Wolves but youthful inexperience still is evident.

Ruff River, trying to build a quarterback after young Rick Harper sustained a broken leg, will be at Hagerman in the other Magic Valley Conference game.

In eight-man play, the Camas County Mushers will be giving a strong look at the new Bliss Bears who still might be a year away but already have proved they can be troublesome. The Mushers are looking for No. 22 in a row. Dietrich will take its Daryl Ballard-based defense against Carey, which felt the new sting of Bliss last week, while Richfield takes its solid crew to Rockland. In a lone Saturday game Murtaugh will be at Declo.

Foreman wants Ali, Frazier

HOUSTON (UPI) — Heavy-weight champion George Foreman said Wednesday contenders Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier should fight him for the crown first before meeting in a possible rematch.

"It is in his best interest to fight me first, not each other," Foreman said. "Both will have the opportunity to fight me. I will fight either one."

Foreman said he had no preference for which fighter he meets first.

"These guys do not matter to me," he said. "They have to come to me. I'll be here when they come around."

Foreman upset Frazier for the crown last January and has had one successful title defense. He said he wanted to stage his next title defense in Houston, his home town.

Napoles looks sharp on eve of title defense with Gray

TORONTO (UPI) — It does not take very long for world welterweight boxing champion Jose Napoles to make believers of those who watch him train for his title defense Saturday against Canadian Clyde Gray at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Napoles, particularly in the last couple of days, has displayed an awesome combination of punching power and boxing skill.

"He's hitting harder and harder, the man's a terrific puncher," says Benny "Red" Randall, one of Napoles' sparring mates.

But there are still doubters — especially the oddsmakers.

Napoles, 33, the winner of all but six of his 77 bouts, 52 of them by knockout (and half of those inside five rounds), was originally quoted as a 3-1 favorite over his much less experienced challenger.

Now, however, second thoughts are setting in, mostly because of the champion's conditioning, or lack of it.

Napoles exceeded the welterweight limit of 147 pounds by six pounds when he arrived in Toronto exactly a week ago. Members of his entourage assured reporters that Napoles would have an easy time making the weight.

This might be so, the oddsmakers said, but Napoles still appears to be not in the best of shape. Accordingly, they have shortened the odds somewhat, to 12-5.

What worries the betting men is that Napoles is doing heavy training so close to the fight.

Wednesday, he had a full-fledged workout. There was "a chance" that Napoles would also box Thursday, said his manager, Phil Silver.

Also disconcerting was the fact that Napoles continues to wear outfits of a man doing some serious weight-reducing — a rubber sweat jacket and heavy flannel pants — in his workouts.

Furthermore, there is the fact that Napoles tried unsuccessfully to get a one-week postponement of the fight before his arrival.

But, come Saturday, all of this might just turn out to be a bit of psychological warfare the champion has practiced to soften up his young opponent.

Gray thinks all of this is just part of Napoles' act and he's determined not to swallow it.

"If he thinks he's psyching me out, he's crazy," Gray says.

Gray put in his last day of training at his country camp in Bolton Wednesday. He was to return to Toronto Thursday and take it easy until fight time.

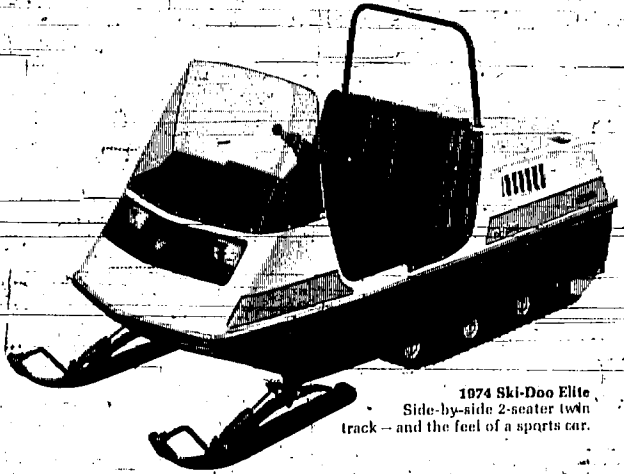

Napoles, who was joined by his wife Catherine and three-year old son, Angel Jose, was to go to the races Thursday. The fourth race at Woodbine Racetrack has been tagged "The Jose-Napoles Purse."

Subtract your waist measurements in inches from your height in inches. The number you get is the figure 35 or lower, look out. You've put on a few too many pounds already. Ideally, say the experts, the number should be about 38.

Exactly 97 per cent of the nation's teenagers watch TV at least some time in the evening hours during any given week. So the surveyors recently reported. They did not say what the other 3 per cent do, and I did not ask.

There were horses before there was grass. But little horses. When the grass started to grow about 30 million years ago, that the horses got big. Or so says a scholar who has made a study of the matter.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

- Q. "How many newborn babies are bottle fed completely by the time they leave the hospital?"
A. Three out of four.
- Q. "What's the oldest town in North America?"
A. That would have to be Mexico City. Founded by the Aztecs in 1328. Under the name of Tenochtitlan.
- Q. "In a double-ring ceremony, who carries the husband's ring?"
A. The maid of honor, generally.

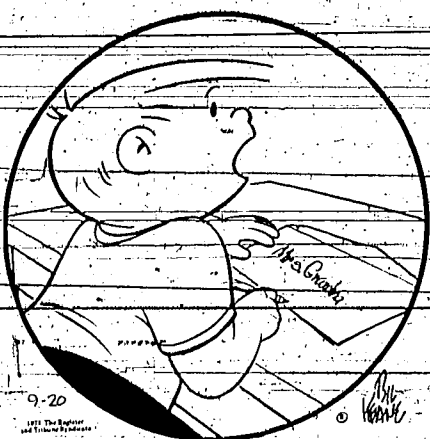

A study of the finer paintings of about 900 hospitalized patients turns up this: Men seem to prefer blues and greens. Women, reds and yellows. That color used least is orange. Black is by far the most common. As for purple, it's almost exclusively a child's color.

THE HARD FACTS

Statistics indicate a woman's tenth baby, if such there be, is 12 ounces heavier at birth than her first baby. On that list of most common American surnames, Wilson ranks No. 10. Were you aware the United States is the only country in the world where matches are given away free? White men generally have considerably larger ears than black men. Ocean experiments contend nothing will repel a shark except the odor of a dead shark.

In that primitive Australian language called Kamilaroi, there are a dozen words for various kinds of snakes, but no one word for snakes in general. And there are nine words for coconuts in their various stages of ripeness, but no one word at all for just a plain ordinary old coconut. Odd.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon difficult aspects are in effect and you would be wise to avoid any arguments or discussions with others. Later influential persons correct some of these conditions so put your trust in such persons. Keep cheerful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle business matters in the morning. If you want best results and later you can gain the favor of experts in your line of endeavor. Show that you are a fine peacemaker in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use real fact so that you don't argue with a valued associate and later in the day you get the support of a higher-up you need. Make sure that reports and statements are correct.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try not to act too fast in the morning or you could end up with a big headache. A big opportunity will present itself later. Take care of a pressing bill promptly and save your credit.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have had no more self-restraint if you are to get along better with others right now. Forget an emotional interlude that could bring you and others unexpected woes.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You feel hemmed in and want to go off on a tangent, but if you are steadfast, all works out fine. Show that you have excellent self-control. Strive to communicate better with associates.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Steer clear of a social activity that could bring dissension. Keep your sights on whatever is of a practical and profitable nature. Being of assistance to a good friend now is wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure to handle any civic or career affair in a most precise way so that others will not criticize. Dine out with mate tonight. Try not to lose your temper. Strive for more harmony.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A new plan should be started after lunch, but make proper preparations in the morning. Make long-range plans with associates that will bring mutual benefits. Try to cooperate more.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show that you know how to handle an obligation quickly and well before you go out for pleasure. Take it easy with loved one who may be frazzled by evening activities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't bring up any moot points with an associate in the morning and quietly do the things that straighten everything out. Study a new plan coming up of a civic nature. Be logical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get work done without expecting help from others and you find that more accord surely is reached through silence. Put more effort into relieving any problems you may have. Be resolute.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle small duties well and forego pleasure during the daytime, but tonight you can enjoy good friends. A creative problem has you puzzled but it can be solved with good thinking.

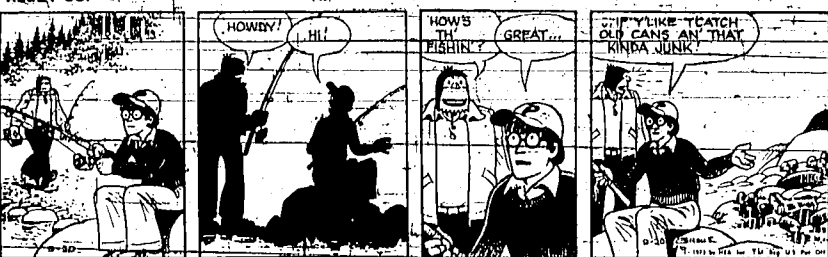

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those individuals who in early life appears to be very serious. It would be well to see that everything around your progeny is light and airy to brighten the spirit here. Teach early not to be overly sensitive at what others might say. Give good ethical training for best results.
